How does Marijuana help with symptoms of Migraines and Neuropathy?

Cannabis contains cannabinoids such as THC (tetrahydrocannabinol) and CBD (cannabidiol), which interact with the body's endocannabinoid system. By interacting with the ECS, Cannabis has the potential to effect pain signals, inflammation and nerve function.

Research also suggests that Marijuana may stabilize brain signals, reduce inflammation in blood vessels, and block pain pathways. Patients who have used Cannabis report fewer migraine episodes, reduced severity, and shorter duration when using cannabis products.

Cannabis also has the potential to reduce nerve pain by calming overactive nerve signals. It can reduce inflammation further impacting pain. Many neuropathy patients report better sleep, less burning pain, and improved ability to move and function when they are taking Marijuana. However, which strain to take and in what dose can only be determined by an experienced Medical Marijuana doctor Fort Myers.

In both conditions, marijuana also supports better sleep, stress reduction, and appetite stimulation, all of which contribute to improved quality of life.
